

Genesis 1 Creation Days

Creation singularity (~ 13.7 billion)

The following creation timeline reflects an integrative approach to biblical interpretation known as "concordism", belief that the facts of nature, as discovered by scientific investigation, will be discernibly consistent with Scriptural statements about the natural realm. This interpretive approach, like any other, involves certain assumptions about both science and Scripture, and is (like any other human endeavor) subject to imperfection and imprecision. Typically the sequence of events is known with more precision than the timing of specific events in the creation scenario. As new evidence emerges, date estimates may be revised.

